

Stoney Creek Trail litter report: December, 2019

TOTALS for December vs AVERAGES (April to December)

Large dead Coho salmon

Items of Interest this month:

Derelict cart in the pond

Waterfall after heavy rain

Carefully capped syringe

Notes: The litter totals are above average, especially the plastic scraps from the doggy-poo bag dispensers. The Coho salmon had another major spawning run starting on December 5th, again after heavy rainfall. Scavenging eagles could often be seen and heard chirping in the trees until the salmon pretty well disappeared at the end of the month. The nice new chain link fence hopefully will help to keep many dogs off the soccer pitch, at least those on the creek-side trail.
